THE SOMERVILLE SCHOOL

ON THE ST. CLAIR RIVER.

The Somerville School for Women was opened in the Autumn of 1879, and in its prospectus announced its proposed work as follows:

“This School designs to offer to each of its students the best opportunities for the acquirement of those branches of literary and practical knowledge which shall fit her in every way for a life of usefulness.

To create an atmosphere in which a thirst for knowledge and a desire to come into the possession of one's true womanhood shall be the prevailing elements. In short, to secure to each pupil who faithfully fulfills the conditions necessary to the final graduation, General Literary Culture and available Mental, Social and Domestic Discipline.”

THE COLLEGIATE COURSE

Prepares students for entering upon University Courses either at Ann Arbor or elsewhere.

THE BELLES LETTRES COURSE.

PREFACE.

In presenting to the public our first volume of the Port Huron Directory, we are confident it will be found as accurate and complete as a work of this kind can be made. The information has been very carefully collected and compiled. Realizing the value of a Township Directory and yielding to a general desire of the merchants and business men generally, we have, at great additional expense, added a complete list of the residents of each township in St. Clair county, in connection with a full Directory of all villages and cities in the county. After making a liberal allowance for duplicates, we find the whole number of names in the book to be 11,376, of which the city furnishes 3,456. This number multiplied by $3\frac{1}{2}$, the usual directory method, gives Port Huron a population of 12,096.

To the business men both of the city and county who have encouraged the publication of this work by their liberal support, we tender our thanks and hope we may continue to enjoy their patronage.

THE PUBLISHERS.

PORT HURON.

The City of Port Huron is situated at the foot of Lake Huron and the head of the St. Clair River, a link in the great water thoroughfare of the Northwest. It is the most easterly point in Michigan, and its natural advantages make it one of the most important places in the State. The St. Clair River at the foot of Lake Huron is quite narrow—not exceeding 900 yards in width,—and the current at that point has a velocity of six miles per hour. Through this beautiful and narrow strait passes the vast tonnage of the Great Lakes, which in volume exceeds the entire foreign commerce of the country. It is a short but important link in the great chain of water commerce which carries annually millions of bushels of grain from the granaries of the west, to Eastern and foreign markets. Huge cargoes of lumber and iron and copper ore, from the pine forests and mines of Michigan, pass this point on their destination to the Eastern, Middle and Southern States; while thousands upon thousands of tons of coal and merchandise pass in the opposite direction, to the Western States and Territories. The importance of a city situated like Port Huron, cannot be over-estimated, and the time has now come when its natural advantages, together with the enterprise and push of its business men, will give the city a rapid and substantial growth.

The St. Clair River itself is the pride of the people who live along its banks, and is the delight of the tourists who visit this section. It is pronounced the finest stream in the world. The water which rushes down in immense volumes from Lake Huron is always clear and pure. There is not a small or muddy stream emptying into it above Black river, below the rapids, or into the lake above the city for miles and miles, nor a low, marshy piece on either shore to affect its purity or health-giving properties. This water for drinking and culinary purposes cannot be surpassed anywhere on the globe. The purity of the water which is furnished the people by a grand system of waterworks, accounts for the healthfulness of the place, and makes it the most desirable point for residence in the West.

The population of Port Huron has reached twelve thousand. Fort Gratiot, an enterprising village joining on the north of the city, has a population of over two thousand, so that there are in this immediate vicinity fourteen thousand inhabitants. It is only a question of time when Fort Gratiot will become a part of the City of Port Huron. The interests of the two are identical. The people in Fort Gratiot are becoming more metropolitan in taste, and will soon seek the improvements and advantages the city enjoys, and which they can obtain at a less cost than under a separate municipal government. More than this, its becoming a part of the territory and government of the city will add to its importance, stimulate its growth, and materially enhance the value of real and personal property therein. It needs no enthusiast to predict a very rapid growth for Port Huron during the next decade. It is one of those things which the keen observer can see at a glance. We will be within bounds when we say that before the year 1893 is ushered in, Port Huron will have a live, energetic population of twenty-five thousand people.

While the natural advantages of Port Huron have always been conceded, yet owing in the past to its northerly location, want of railroad communication, and the influence and wealth of an ancient and powerful rival city, Detroit, on the south, its growth up to 1869 was slow. The capital of its business men was mostly invested in lumbering operations to the north and west, along the banks of the Black river and its tributaries. As all the pine timber along that stream, in fact all the timber in the Huron peninsula, has been cut and marketed, the capitalists of the city have, during the past ten years, been turning their attention to other investments, which have gone toward building up and improving the place. More than ordinary effort has been made to push forward municipal improvements and give it a metropolitan appearance. It has now become not only an active business centre, but as a place for residence it cannot be surpassed by any other city in the State, and we may go further and say in the west.

The city is lighted with gas, manufactured by an enterprising company. A movement is now on foot to introduce the Edison electric light. The Holly system of waterworks was introduced in 1872 at a cost of nearly two hundred thousand dollars. It furnishes the inhabitants with the purest water in the world, and gives a fire protection equal, if not superior, to that of cities with ten times the population of Port Huron. It is the only place of its size or quadruple its size in the State of Michigan where the same or a similar system of waterworks has been put in, and where the receipts from the consumers of water exceed to so large an extent the expenditures. The revenue from that source not only pays the running expenses, but furnishes annually a fine surplus. During the last ten years this surplus has been sufficient to pay for laying miles of water pipes on other streets. We are safe in saying that no city in Michigan, or we can safely go further and say that no city in the country, with the same number of inhabitants, has so many miles of piping and furnishes so large a quantity of water at so small an expense as is furnished the city of Port Huron.

Some three years ago a system of paving was started, and each year since it has been pushed forward with commendable zeal on the part of the public spirited citizens of the city. It is now conceded that no other place of similar size can show so great an improvement in that direction. Starting from the northern terminus of Huron avenue, we go south over a smooth cedar pavement to Military street bridge, which spans Black river in the center of the city, then continuing south on Military street, we do not leave this lovely avenue until we have passed over nearly five miles of pavement. At least three miles of this distance on the south follows along the banks of the St. Clair river, within full view of the steamers, vessels and barges which are constantly passing and re-passing during the season of navigation. No pleasanter drive can be found than this stretch of pavement in the City of Port Huron. Portions of several other streets have been paved, and further improvements in this line are to be pushed forward the coming year.

A Street Railway Line runs from the Griswold street depot on the south to Fort Gratiot on the north. During the winter the cars of this Company are heated with stoves, making them warm and comfortable for the passengers patronizing the line.

Through the push and enterprise of L. A. Sherman Port Huron was one of the first cities in the state to adopt the Telephone System. It now has telephonic communication with Detroit and all intermediate places on the south, and with the thriving villages and railroad points north and west. These lines are being extended in all directions.

The Custom House and Post Office building, costing $200,000 is the finest Government Building in Michigan. No better appointed, more convenient or better conducted Post Office can be found in the country. The Customs business at this point is extensive, and the management of the office under the present corps of officers is second to no other port of entry in the country.

The people of this enterprising city are not behind more populous and wealthy and places in the State, in the matter of education. The High School Building in the third ward is a large and commodious edifice, while the school buildings in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth wards are well adapted to accommodate all the pupils in the city. The Public Schools, under the supervision of Prof. Henry J. Robeson, have made rapid progress and are the pride of its patrons. They take rank second to no other public schools in the State.

Port Huron is becoming a City of Churches as well as school houses. The Baptist denomination have just completed an elegant brick structure. The Congregationalists have a large brick church, richly furnished. The Methodists have an imposing and attractive edifice on Lapeer Avenue. The Catholic church on the north side is a commodious building, while the Lutheran and Presbyterian churches are creditable alike to the city and the societies supporting them.

The City Hall and Court House is unquestionably one of the finest buildings for its size in the State. The Sessions of the Circuit Court are held in the third story. On the same floor we find the U. S. Signal Service Office. The Signal Service station at this point is the most important on the whole chain of lakes.

Port Huron has two Opera Houses; the City Opera House on Military street, and Harder's on Water street. The former has a capacity for seating 1000 persons, is elegantly decorated, richly furnished and well ventilated. It is conceded to be the neatest and most comfortable building of its kind and size in the State. Harder's Opera House will seat about 700 people.

Probably no city of the same population in the country supports more newspapers than Port Huron. The Times Publishing Company issues both a daily and weekly edition. Each have a large circulation. There is not a printing office in the State outside of Detroit that has better appointment, more modern improvements and turns out better work than the TIMES office. The Book Binding department connected with this office is a model establishment. The TIMES is Republican in politics and is a strong political factor in the Seventh Congressional District. The Daily TELEGRAPH, published by the Williams Publishing Company, although comparatively a new enterprise, is growing rapidly in public favor. Arrangements are being completed to issue a weekly edition. It is independent in politics. The COMMERCIAL, the oldest newspaper in the city, is published by Talbot & Co. It is democratic in politics. It has both a weekly and Sunday edition, the latter having a very large circulation in the city and Fort Gratiot. The Saturday Morning TRIBUNE, published by J. H. Shults, has a wide circulation and is pushing rapidly to the front. The Weekly MAIL, published by T. Lew. Kilets, has its share of success. The BEE HIVE, a sprightly society paper published in the interest of the Knights of the Maccabees, a beneficiary order having its headquarters in Port Huron, completes the list.

On the Canadian shore, opposite Port Huron, is seen the

SATURDAY TRIBUNE.

J. H. SHULTS, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

THE SATURDAY MORNING TRIBUNE is admitted to be the brightest, spiciest and newsiest weekly paper in St. Clair County, and has a larger circulation, as can be proven by a comparison of subscription books, which I am ready to do at any time. Its circulation is not confined to St. Clair, but reaches every P. O. in the Huron Peninsula.

It gives the foreign, domestic, state and local news, choice miscellany, romances, poetry, &c., and at $1.00 a year in advance is very cheap.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

When in the course of human events it becomes customary for each individual printer to arise and declare in language strong that his is the most complete establishment in town, it behooves our devil to take the platform and impart to an anxious public the undeniable fact that in all St. Clair County there cannot be found a better equipped Office for every kind of

than THE SATURDAY TRIBUNE establishment. Our Type and Presses are all bran new, hence we turn out nice, clear, tasty printing, not dim, illegible work, like some establishments in this country. The proprietor of THE TRIBUNE is a Job Printer of no little experienc, having been employed for a number of years in one of the largest establishments in Chicago, hence he can assure good work. To those business men who have never given us a trial are these words especially dedicated. All others know that the FORT GRATIOT.

Few towns in the State have more flattering business prospects and few can show a more rapid growth of population for the past five years. With every indication of the monthly pay roll of the Grand Trunk at this point being doubled by the building of new shops and the increase of traffic following consolidation, the future has already been anticipated and all kinds of business have taken a fresh start. Many advantages would doubtless accrue to the Village from annexation to Port Huron, such as an adequate water supply, the necessity of which has been so recently and often demonstrated. There are several Churches, a good graded School and a number of Hotels. As shown by data derived from the canvass, the population is about 2,200. The present Village President is O'Brien J. Atkinson; Clerk, Fred Garbutt; Postmaster, R. E. French.

BROCKWAY CENTRE.

A thriving town of 700 souls, 25 miles northwest of Port Huron, with which place it is brought into close business relations by the P. H. & N. W. Ry. Several new dwellings completed or in course of erection attest a rapidly increasing population. The chief industries are a foundry, two saw mills and a woolen factory. Three churches and a good school provide for the spiritual and intellectual welfare of the place, while the traveling public are provided for by two hotels, the table and sample rooms of one of which, the Commercial, are hard to excel. Principal articles of shipment, grain and hay. Stage to Brockway daily. Fare 50 cents. O. P. Chamberlin, Postmaster.

MARINE CITY.

This thriving village of 2000 inhabitants is situated on St. Clair river, eight miles below St. Clair City its nearest railroad station and shipping point in winter.

The Marine City Stave Co., do an extensive business in the manufacture of staves and circled heading and have the largest general store in the county. About 125 men are employed by this firm.

The leading industry is ship building, upward of 150 water craft having been built here, and half a million dollars being invested in the vessel interest. Large quantities of grain and hay are shipped, the land in the vicinity being exceedingly fertile.

There are four Churches, Methodist, Lutheran, Episcopal and Roman Catholic; a good graded School and Weekly Newspaper; of the Hotels, the Halpin House kept by Thomas Halpin, who is also proprietor of the Stage Line between here and Port Huron, furnishes the traveler excellent accommodations.

Two Planing Mills, two Brick Yards and a Brewery, complete the list of industries. V. A. Saph, President of the Village Council; H. Buttironi, Treasurer; J. J. Spinks, Postmaster. Mail, daily.

C. E. MEECH & CO.'S

MEMPHIS

Is one of the thriving villages on the Almont branch of the P. H. & N. W. Ry., nineteen miles from Port Huron and seven miles from Ridgeway, with which it is connected by daily stage. A live paper, the Memphis Tribune, published by A. H. Patterson, is already well established. One of the oldest firms is W. M. Eaton & Sons, who turn out annually seventy-five buggies and wagons, besides doing an extensive foundry business. Employing only the best workmen, they maintain their reputation for reliable work, and draw patronage from far and near. O. F. Newcomer is one of the solid men of the place, doing a large custom business in horseshoeing and manufacturing wagons, guaranteed in every respect.

There are two hotels, of which the Cliff House, kept by George Cliff, has its share of patronage. Geo. W. Carman, Postmaster.

C. E. MEECH & CO.'S

ST. CLAIR,

Is pleasantly located on the St. Clair river 12 miles below Port Huron, and enjoys the distinction of being the second city in the county. If there is not so much lumber manufactured here as formerly, the City is much more attractive having two miles of fine pavement, a Driving Park, and by common consent the best Hotel in the State; the Oakland. There is no reason to doubt that the Mineral Spring Company by which this house was built backed as they are by ample capital and enterprise, will make St. Clair a resort for the best class of those seeking health or pleasure.

The Somerville School for young ladies although not an old institution, has already taken an enviable rank among schools of its kind, its aim being symmetrical development. Under the able management of Mrs. C. F. Ballentine, it must continue to enjoy the patronage and confidence of the public. The system of instruction is more fully explained on another page.

A Woolen Mill, an extensive Tannery, three Breweries and two Brick Yards, give employment to a large number of men, and considerable quantities of hay are shipped during navigation.

CLAY TOWNSHIP.

The most southerly part of St. Clair County is bounded by the townships of Ira and Cottrellville on the north, on the east and south by St. Clair River, and west by Lake St. Clair. It is described as Town 2 north, Range 16 east, and contains 10,000 acres. The St. Clair River and its branches divide this township into several islands, among the larger of which are Harsen's and Stromness Islands. Algonac, on the St. Clair River, is the principal village, and has a population of about 300.

PORT HURON TOWNSHIP.

Originally known as Desmond; was organized in 1828, and has an area of 10,128 acres. It is bounded on the north by Fort Gratiot township, east by the City of Port Huron and St. Clair River, south by St. Clair township, and west by Kimball township. Its principal village is Marysville, in the southern part of the township, on the St. Clair River, with a population of about 200. Its proximity to the City of Port Huron makes it desirable as a place of residence, many fine dwellings having been erected on the banks of the St. Clair by the business men of the above city. The township is designated as Town 6 north, Range 17 east.

MILL NEAR THE DEPOT.

SARNIA, ONT.

An enterprising town of about 5,000 inhabitants, the county seat of Lambton, from its location on the St. Clair river, with its superior railroad facilities is one of the most important business centers of western Ontario. In this county are all the oil wells of Canada, which add materially to the wealth of those who have had the faith and venture to invest in them. From the area of the oil belt, which evidently extends within the corporate limits of Sarnia, if not across the river, this industry would seem to be only in its infancy. Its development will certainly con-
